

405 Wellness Builds Strength Through Consistency and Community

By Vani Ellis

Moore, OK — Clients come to 405 Wellness for workouts, mobility training and stretching, but many say they stay because of the environment owner Francisco Reyes has built. Reyes, a stretch therapist and personal trainer, runs the studio with a focus on relationships, consistency and long-term health.

Reyes grew up active and social, spending much of his childhood playing soccer and connecting with people.

“I was naturally an extrovert,” he said. “Socializing was a big part of me as a kid.”

Today, that instinct shows up in the way he works with clients, creating a space where conversation and trust matter just as much as physical training.

Before opening 405 Wellness, Reyes spent years working under others — first as an hourly employee, then as a franchisee with Stretch U in Norman. After about three and a half years running the franchise, he realized the time and energy he was investing could mean more if he went independent.

“It was just me,” he said. “But that challenge didn’t scare me.”

He opened 405 Wellness in Norman, where every client followed him. After several years there, he moved the studio to Moore, where he continues to operate as a one-man business.

When COVID-19 hit, Reyes adapted quickly. While many small businesses closed, he kept his doors open, adjusted sessions and worked through uncertainty.

“I never took a pause,” he said. “It taught me perseverance and gave me confidence — if I could go through that, I could handle anything.”

Clients say that resilience and consistency show up in every session. Rachael Simmons describes him as a steady source of encouragement.

“He’s kind of a bright light in the week,” she said. “He treats everybody so well, no matter what walk of life you’re from.”

Long-time client Jim Mitchell said Reyes motivates him to stay healthy as he ages.

“By the time I leave, I’m relaxed,” he said. “And I get to see people here every week.”

Francisco Reyes stretching Jim Mitchell at 405 Wellness in Moore, OK. Photo by Vani Ellis

For Nancy Rance, who began training with Reyes during the pandemic, the appeal is his realistic, down-to-earth approach to strength and mobility.

“He pushes me in a healthy way,” she said. “I’ve leveled up without even noticing.”

Looking ahead, Reyes hopes to eventually expand or mentor younger trainers, but for now, he is focused on maintaining what he values most.

“Consistency is one of the hardest things,” he said. “But it’s what keeps your identity.”

Source List

HUMAN SOURCES

Francisco Reyes

Owner, Stretch Therapist & Personal Trainer, 405 Wellness

Interview conducted in person at 405 Wellness

April 2026

Phone: 405-612-7847

Nancy Rance

Client at 405 Wellness

Interview conducted on Zoom

April 2026

Email: nkrance@me.com

Phone: 405-535-5301

Rachael Simmons

Client at 405 Wellness

Interview conducted in person

April 2026

Email: racjeddtravis@gmail.com

Phone: 405-613-4393

Jim Mitchell

Long-term client at 405 Wellness

Interview conducted in person

April 2026

Email: jim@sooner247.com

Phone: 405-642-2200

ONLINE SOURCES

405 Wellness Facebook Page

<https://www.facebook.com/405Wellness/>

Accessed April 2026

Used for business background and public information.

Buzzfile Property Record for 243 34th Ave SW, Norman, OK

<https://www.buzzfile.com/property/243-34Th-Ave-Sw-Norman-OK/71C640DBCE>

Accessed April 2026

Used to verify that both Stretch U – Norman and 405 Wellness operated at the same address under Francisco Reyes.

Stretch U Website

<https://stretchu.com>

Accessed April 2026

Used for background on Stretch U's services, training model and franchise structure.